AN ETHEREAL BEAUTY AT SEA, STRAIGHT FROM GREEK MYTHOLOGY.

According to the Greek myth, Ganymede, the most beautiful of mortals, was abducted by Zeus, in the form of an eagle, and brought to Olympus to live with the gods.

From Greek mythology to the sea: the Ganimede concept is based on ethereal, timeless beauty deriving from a combination of zoomorphic shapes inspired by the eagle and how it was represented during the Art Deco and Rationalist period. Streamlined, long lines have been used for the main volumes, stretching it out towards the horizon and creating a powerful contrast with the angular zoomorphic elements.

The resulting effect is one of unique and original harmonious elements that are nonetheless contrasting: 113 metres of pure elegance and beauty.

A STYLISED EAGLE FLYING ELEGANTLY ACROSS THE SEA.

The characteristic shape of the bow recalls the deliberately stylised profile of an eagle's beak. This theme also appears, in a more or less obvious way, in the interplay of the full and empty spaces that make up and characterise the shape of the decks and windows. The outdoor area set aside for the owner has a large private lounge that connects the two prism-shaped pools, set like precious gems in the hull. The helipad can be furnished and converted into a recreation area for the owner. The aft section of the main deck, which is very narrow and features zoomorphic stylistic elements, becomes a terrace that shields part of the beach club from the sun.

LIKE A MAGNIFICENT ITALIAN GARDEN.

The yacht is boarded via the beach club – over 20 metres long – that calls to mind a kind of monumental garden. It connects with the main deck by means of a stately spiral staircase, decorated in a typically Art Deco style and positioned in the centre. The pool is flush with the deck and has a waterfall, reminiscent of the typical water features of an Italian garden. The inspiration behind all this becomes even more apparent by observing the perfect symmetry of the whole.

LARGE OPEN-AIR
AREAS TO APPRECIATE
THE BEAUTY OF THE SEA AT ALL TIMES.

The stern slopes down and houses an innovative beach club concept, providing a neat contrast with the large inside spaces we have seen so far. The areas for the owner and guests are open-air and flush with the deck: the characteristic layout and low partitions remove all visual and structural barriers between the outdoor areas and the sea.

AN EXCLUSIVE WORLD
THAT DOMINATES
THE HORIZON.

OWNERS LOUNGE

The owner's suite occupies the whole of the forward section of the upper deck and extends outwards, making use of the long bow. A wonderful view is offered by the large, full-height windows in the hull, perfect for admiring the panorama.
